LAS 199 Global Studies
Diversity and Integration: Delhi

Destination
Delhi, India

When
December 26 – January 14, 2009

Program Summary
Coveted, conquered, and remade first by the Mughals and then by the British, Delhi/New Delhi is today the proud capital of a flourishing independent democracy poised to influence the whole world. Enjoy Delhi's Hindu, Mughal, Sikh, and British architecture, feel the city's vibrancy, ride its contemporary Metro, absorb India's religious and caste equations, and understand the subtleties of New Delhi's international relations and of India's internal politics. Delhi offers an unparalleled combination of cultures, ideas, and historic monuments. You will visit one of the world's wonders—the Taj Mahal in Agra—in addition to Delhi's great sites, including the house where Mahatma Gandhi spent his last days and was killed. Expect interactions with artists, authors, Dalits (former "untouchables"), young Indians who are in daily touch with the U.S. from their call-centers, and others.

Program Fee
$2,450 for LAS students. ($2,950 for other students)

* Includes: Round-trip airfare (Chicago-Delhi), airport transfers, housing and most meals, orientation programs, program excursions, and international health insurance.
* Does Not Include: Books or personal expenses.

Application
studyabroad.uiuc.edu

Deadline
September 20, 2008

Contact
Rajmohan Gandhi
rgandhi@illinois.edu
Center for South Asian and Middle Eastern Studies

www.studyabroad.uiuc.edu